Feitelberg Award

Congratulations to Jeff Hawk, PTRS Director of Instructional Technology, for being selected as the 2014 recipient of the Feitelberg Award for his article, SECTIONS Model: Strategizing Technology-Based Instruction in Physical Therapist Education. The Feitelberg Journal Founders' Award was created by Samuel B. Feitelberg, PT, MA, FAPTA in honor of the efforts of the over 100 colleagues whose contributions of time and money created the Journal of Physical Therapy Education, to acknowledge excellence in publication by a first-time author in the Journal of PT Education for the calendar year. The award will be presented at the Education Section Business Meeting at APTA's Combined Sections Meeting, in Indianapolis, on Friday, February 6, at 6:30pm.

Rehabilitation Science Research Seminar

On Friday, January 16th, we will begin our spring season of the 2015 Rehabilitation Science Research Seminar. We are excited about our prospects for a winning season, with several returning veterans, some promising first and second year players, as well as key free agency pick-ups that will help us fill in some of our gaps in the defensive secondary!

For openers, we are pleased to announce that Dr. Joshua Wies, who is affiliated with Cambridge University (academic visitor) and Agwell Biometrics Corp. (founder), will be presenting his current research in the area of behavioral monitoring with sensors. The title of his talk will be:

"Sensors and Apps in the Assessment of Geriatric Risk Stratification"

Please join us from 9:00am-10:00am in Room 511 of Allied Health Building (PTRS).

NOTE the new location: Room 511, not 211 as in the past!
